Read books that make you ache with laughter.
Read books that end with happily ever after.
I hope we have all agreed.
To have lots of adventures this summer as we read!

* Bring a picture of yourself to share with your friends at school.

Math

Find math anywhere you can! Count your toys, your books, or anything else you can imagine.

Parents you can also play "Make 10" with your child. You would give them a number from 0 to 10. They would then give you the number that would add up to 10.

Variations: This can be played with using your fingers or objects to make 10. If students seem to quickly figure out the answer the game can be adjusted up to 20.
